

GMRP helps Distribution Cooperative, Inc. staff new facility

Distribution Cooperative, Inc.

Distribution Cooperative, Inc. (DCI), a “sister” company of Partners Cooperative, Inc., is a 501(e) support services, non-profit distribution center serving many of Partners’ non-profit hospitals in the state of Georgia. DCI distributes medical and surgical supplies and certain pharmaceuticals. Additionally, DCI has a custom procedure tray division, PackRoom, LLC.

DCI is owned by Archbold Medical Center, Inc., DeKalb Regional Health System, Floyd Medical Center, Gwinnett Health System, Inc., Hamilton Health Care System, Inc., Navicent Health System, Northeast Georgia Health System, Phoebe Health and Tift Regional Health System.

Challenge

Early in 2017, DCI experienced staffing challenges related to the relocation of their warehouse and accelerated growth in their business.

Solution

Georgia Medical Resource Pool (GMRP), the temporary health care staffing company under Phoenix Health Care Management Services, established a non-clinical staffing division to assist DCI with temporary staff placements, including warehouse and administrative support personnel.

Results

- GMRP provided 13 temporary staff placements in 2017
- GMRP billed 8,602 staffed hours
- A cost savings of 4 percent was realized over similar staffing industry competitors

“Jean Bondurant and her team quickly assessed our urgent needs, scheduled a job fair at our new facility in McDonough and interviewed over 57 candidates for our open positions. Within just a couple of days, we were staffed with qualified and competent temporary associates, some of which went on to become full-time DCI associates.”
